Under Three-Year Sentence Prisoner Escapes From Cell Caught Ten Hours Later

Martin Tells How And Why

Newmarket—The how and why of his escape from the Newmarket cell in which he had been confined was described by William Martin following his capture and return to the cell less than ten hours after he fled. Martin escaped Friday night while police were waiting for the necessary papers to transport him and other prisoners to Don Jail in Toronto where he was being held out.

Of medium height and slender build, Martin has a clean-cut face. He has a Bachelor of Arts degree and when in jail, serves as a teacher in the prison school. Police recall that his escape from Newmarket is his fourth break. He once scaled a 14-foot wall at Cobourg in an escape attempt. This is his story of his escape as he told it to the Era and Express Saturday morning: "They brought me down from court and put me in a cell with Hurst (on whose behalf Martin had testified). The policeman slammed the door and left us. Later on, I pushed against the door and opened it. I stepped out of the cell and went down the corridor. I could hear the police talking in the office. I went to the right to a door which let me out into the lane.

"I went up Main St. to the townline, and then west to Yonge St. I cut across fields until I came to a side-road (second of King). Then I went south as far as Aurora. I walked through Aurora side streets and then onto the highway. I hitched a ride from a truck near De-LaSalle College. When I reached Toronto, I went to my sister's house on Bedford Park Road in the township. The police caught me there.

"I am married and have two children. My wife is expecting and she and the eldest child need medical attention. They are on relief while I am in jail. I wanted to work, and earn some money for them. Then I was going to give myself up."

Newmarket — Brought here from the Don Jail in Toronto, before beginning a three-year term for breaking into a church, William Martin escaped from a Newmarket cell Friday night only to be captured in North York township early Saturday morning. He was returned to Newmarket where he was charged Saturday morning with escaping from the custody of the police and remanded.

WILLIAM MARTIN

Martin was brought to Newmarket to testify on behalf of C. Hurst who was being tried on two charges of theft and two of receiving stolen goods. After his evidence, Martin was returned to the cell pending transportation to Toronto when court adjourned.

His escape was discovered by Detective William Martindale of York County Police when he went to get the prisoners ready for their trip to Toronto. The alarm was flashed over provincial police radio from Aurora, and county and municipal officers patrolled the roads between Newmarket and Toronto.

Following a report of a stolen car having crashed a telephone pole near Bedford Park Road, police surmised that the car had been stolen by Martin and that he was heading towards his sister's home on the same road. Police surrounded the home and Martin was captured when he attempted to escape by the back door and was halted by the sight of a drawn gun in the hand of one of the officers.

Police later found there was no connection between the stolen car and Martin's escape.

Street Lights Go On When Power Cut Off

Newmarket — Between 15 and 20 phone calls asking why the street lights were on when the power was cut off swamped town clerk Wesley Brooks yesterday morning when the switches were pulled for the first time at 10 a.m.

The general run of the calls went something like this: "Say! You guys tell us to save power and the street lights are on in the middle of the day burning up electricity and I just made a special trip home to turn off my hot water heater which I forgot about and when I came back down town all the street lights were on and..."

"Some of them were ready to chew our ears off," said Mr. Brooks who has really very little to do with Newmarket's hydro operations. What happened is that when the switches were pulled, the power controlling the automatic street light switch went off, and the street lights went on in that part of the town which had not been cut off.

Hydro men adjusted circuits so that when the afternoon shut-off came at 3 p.m., no lights showed.

HOME FROM U.K.

Newmarket—Horace J. Hilscox, Dominion Bank manager, has returned from a three-week visit to England. He and his family returned by air.

Newmarket—The Lions club has spent $4,480 in service work during the fiscal year of the club, according to the report made by treasurer Frank Courtney.

The money was raised through various Lions club activities including the annual carnival in mid-summer.

A break-down of expenditures shows that the club spent $1,092 in child welfare work including $236 for milk, hospital expenses of $623, and dental expenses of $58.50.

Donations to community organizations totalled $1,310 and included amounts ranging as high as $500 to the personal parcels committee, and covering community activities from the war memorial at the Veterans' plot, $50, to the Citizens' Band of $75.

Playground supervision for the annual summer program, and equipment for the Lions park cost the club more than $1,000.

The balance of the total was taken up in miscellaneous expenditures, all with their account on community service. In presenting the report to the club, Mr. Courtney stressed that the club had raised these funds through its own efforts but was dependent upon the good-will and the support of the public to make those efforts successful.

HYDRO SCORE TO DATE

Quota 19,500 kwh.

Consumption: Thursday - 22,900 kwh.

Friday - 20,660 kwh.

Monday - 19,560 kwh.

Tuesday - 21,160 kwh.

Wednesday - 21,160 kwh.

Expect Daily Cuts Until Quota Kept

Newmarket — Switches were pulled here for the first time on Wednesday morning at 10 a.m., and the half-hour cut was duplicated in the afternoon at 3 p.m. The cuts will be repeated daily for an indefinite period, commission officials say, although they offer some hope that renewed efforts to save power may offer temporary relief.

The power cuts effected the single phase power at Dixon's, Bender's, the two feed mills, dairies and lumber mills, the Hoffman foundry, and Main St. business including the Era and Express.

Davis Leather and Hoffman's escaped, and most of the Specialty, which uses very little town power. The east side of Prospect Ave., south of Queen, was not affected because of Sangamo. That firm needs continual electric energy for certain processes, and it is hooked on to the domestic system, but work is underway to separate the circuits.

The street lights went on in that part of town when the switches were pulled because the automatic switch regulating the lights went off with the rest of the power. The result was that power flowed through relays and lit the lights in that part of town which had not been cut off. The circuits were changed for the next cut-off.

Hydro Commissioner Fred S. Thompson urged redoubled efforts to save power, pointing out that every bit of saving helps reduce the length and frequency of cut-offs. He reminded householders to cut off their water heaters from 11 a.m. to midnight, and to keep all other heaters off completely.

Two Hour Cut-Offs Ask More Assistance

'Morning Paper' Hours Bit Premature

It seems we were a bit premature in announcing the possibility of "morning newspaper hours" for the Era and Express. Although there have been power cut-offs, the linotypists met the challenge in their own way, by contriving a working shift that avoids the power interruptions but still gets the type set. So up to this edition, we are going as usual. If the power situation becomes much more acute, however, the night shift will indeed become a reality.

NOT SOLICITING

Newmarket—While the Salvation Army band was playing Saturday night on Main St., before the services at the arena, someone is reported to have solicited funds on Main St. on behalf of either the band or the services. Neither the Salvation Army nor any of the organizations connected with the services are soliciting funds from the public in their support.

Aurora—The big problem facing the Aurora Hydro Commission at present is the lack of cooperation from householders and merchants, claims Bill Large, Commissioner. Aurora's average volume of kilowatt hours before the shortage was 23,000. Placed on a quota of 18,000, it has up to the present reduced its consumption to 19,000 kilowatt hours.

Power is shut off, except in industry, for two hours each day, from 9 to 10 a.m. and from 2 to 3 p.m. Street lights are turned out at 8 a.m., and flat-rate water heaters are shut off at undisclosed periods during the day. Aurora's industries now work Saturdays and take Mondays off instead.

Indiscriminate use of electric power by householders and retail merchants alike is regarded by Hydro officials as a serious setback. People make no attempt to cut down their use of power-eating appliances and many have been seen to go out for the evening while the lights at home remain ablaze, according to officials. The use of unnecessary lighting is commonly observed. Unless the people of Aurora cooperate more fully, it is warned, further cuts will be necessary.

Hill & Murray Awarded Legion Hall Contract

Aurora—Hill & Murray have been awarded the contract to build the Aurora Canadian Legion hall and work will start this month on the Yonge St. site. The branch will use the completed portion for temporary clubrooms as soon as possible. Volunteer labor will be available to aid the general contractors.

BREAKS LEG

Aurora — Miss Lois Morrison had a leg broken last week while playing at Aurora high school.

Aurora—Criticism of the town council for failure to uphold the town plumbing by-law was leveled at council and the medical officer of health, Dr. G. W. Williams, at a council meeting Monday night by Sam Dickey, chairman of the North York Master Plumbers' Association, on behalf of that association. Mr. Dickey charged that the school-rooms over the firehall were exposed to sewer gas because of faulty plumbing installation, that an order of the medical officer to repair broken toilet facilities in a tenement house inhabited by six children and seven adults had not been obeyed two years later and because of it, sewer gas was freed into the house, and that the lack of water supply for flushing toilets in the arena, lack of ventilation and broken water pipes had created a condition which was not checked by the medical officer.

Mr. Dickey also charged that licenses for plumbers are being issued by the town to untrained persons contrary to a town by-law which states that the recipients must be trained plumbers and their qualifications approved by council. Mr. Dickey said that this meant risking faulty plumbing and this could be dangerous in its results.

Mr. Dickey made his charges to council after rejecting Mayor Dr. Crawford Rose's suggestion that a committee hear him.

Audience Shares In Pageantry At Week-Long Arena Services

Newmarket — A man who never doubted that it was his destiny to serve Christianity, Rev. Edmund Hains is currently conducting mass meetings in the arena which have been attended by an average of between 300 and 400 since the services began on Sunday.

Mr. Hains, an ordained Presbyterian minister, is preaching upon a long standing belief of his, "his theme" as he describes it, of "Christ foreshadowed by the wilderness tabernacle." To give an added reality to his messages, Mr. Hains brings with him a large model of the tabernacle, and through the use of pageantry, participated in by people chosen from the audience, depicts scenes taken from early Biblical writings about the "wilderness tabernacle."

A resident of Winona Lake, Indiana, where his next-door neighbor is Mrs. Billy Sunday, widow of the famous evangelist, Mr. Hains was chairman of the Board of National Missions in the United States, later turning to work with the "Youth for Christ" movement, and Christian Businessmen's committees.

He appears in Newmarket at the invitation of the "Youth for Christ" and the Newmarket Christian Businessmen's committee. The services will conclude on Sunday.

Carnahan Committed For Trial

Newmarket—The driver of the car that struck and killed Mrs. John W. Bowser, Aurora, on Sept. 4, Leonard James Carnahan, 2 Farnham Ave., Toronto, was committed in magistrate's court on Saturday for trial before a jury. He is charged with manslaughter.

The preliminary hearing started at 2 p.m. Friday afternoon, was adjourned after three o'clock and lasted from 10 a.m. to 4.15 p.m. on Saturday. At the conclusion of the hearing Magistrate Holliday said that the degree of evidence was great enough to justify Carnahan answering to the charge in higher court.

A test taken from Carnahan's blood at York County hospital after the accident showed an alcohol content of 1.56 parts per thousand, according to Dr. Joseph Rogers, professor of analytic chemistry at the University of Toronto. Dr. Rogers said that it was the equivalent of seven or eight ounces of liquor in the system at the time the blood was taken. He testified that according to other findings, the accused's faculties must have been impaired.

Elywood Chapman, Aurora taxi driver and an eyewitness of the accident, said he was driving north at the southern outskirts of Aurora when a car passed him. He estimated the speed of the car to be 75 miles per hour. "He passed me," Chapman said, "and all of a sudden he swerved left, hit a hydro pole and then I couldn't see anything for flame and smoke when the wires broke."

Occupants of a Buffalo car testified that Carnahan's car attempted to pass them, hit the rear corner of their car, and swerved to the left. They were driving north, ahead of the taxi. Chief Constable Fisher Dunham, Aurora, who investigated the accident, said he found in the Carnahan car, one small case of beer unopened, a large case of beer unopened, another large case with five unopened bottles and the rest empty, and a part bottle of opened liquor.

Miss V. E. Hill, chief operator, is seen here in the busy operating room of the Newmarket telephone exchange with some of her staff of 21 operators. Operators at the exchange are now handling 5,700 local and 625 long distance calls on the average day, as compared with 3,500 local and 250 long distance calls on the average day in 1940. Operators are: left to right: Phyllis Blizard, Mrs. Betty Johnston, Pauline Longhurst, Doreen Ruthven, Florence Cain, Velma Atkinson, Mrs. Dorothy Hinton, Mildred Adams.

Bell Installs New Switchboard Section

Newmarket's out-of-town telephone calls are now being connected by special long distance operators assigned to this work at the Bell Telephone exchange. The change came into effect last Monday. Formerly, local and long distance calls were handled by the same operators, but the rapid growth in the number of telephones in service, coupled with a large increase in the number of local and long distance calls, has resulted in the separation of local calls and those destined for out-of-town points.

Telephone users calling out-of-town points now ask for "Long Distance" when the local operator answers their calls, and are connected with the long distance operator who puts through the call to Toronto, Toledo, or Thornhill, as required.

This new milestone in telephone development here is a direct result of the rapid growth of recent years. S. R. Van Dusen, Bell Telephone manager, told the Era and Express. Today there are 1,700 telephones in service, nearly double the 1940 figure of 870. Since 1945, nearly 700 telephones have been added, or a gain of nearly 70 percent in less than three years.

Eight telephone operators handled Newmarket's telephone calls in 1940, when there were five switchboard positions in the exchange. By 1945 there were six positions, and the operating staff had increased to 13. Today there are eight positions, and the staff has grown to 21 operators, working under the supervision of Miss V. E. Hill, Volume Tripled.

In 1940, the switchboard girls were handling 3,500 local calls and 250 long distance calls on the average day. By 1945, daily local calls numbered 4,000 on the average, and long distance calls had doubled in volume to an average of 500 per day. The exchange is now handling 5,700 local and 625 long distance calls on the average day.

In spite of the large increases in the number of telephones in service, it has not been possible to meet all orders for new telephones. At present there are about 25 applicants waiting for service. As soon as necessary outside wires and cables are obtained and installed, those now waiting will be added to the constantly growing list of telephone subscribers here. Mr. Van Dusen said. It is expected that all orders now on file will be filled during the autumn.

In order to enlarge the exchange to meet the demand for service, the company's business office will be moved shortly to an adjoining building. The space thus provided will be used for new switchboards. Another switchboard position is scheduled to be added next spring, bringing the total of positions in service to nine.

Newmarket is an important centre for telephone maintenance and repair in this section of the province. The company's plant department here, under A. E. Revell, the wire chief, looks after installation, repair and maintenance of telephone plants in Newmarket, Sutton, Rochester, Point, Thornhill, Richmond Hill, Bolton, Bradford, Aurora and Tottenham. Like the operating staff, the plant staff has grown considerably in recent years, from four men in 1940 to 11 today. Six trucks are now needed for this work, where three were sufficient eight years ago.

In addition to these plant forces, the construction forces which operate from Newmarket under supervision of Bert Day, the construction foreman, comprise six men with two trucks, whose work includes the erection of poles, wire and cable at the above-mentioned points.

Alterations and additions to the telephone system serving Newmarket are always in progress. At present plans are under way to provide service for the new Central Mortgage and Housing development in the southwest section of the town, where 50 housing units are to be constructed. In this way the growth of the telephone system goes hand in hand with Newmarket's growth, industrial and residential.

Boudreau of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Newmarket, was guest speaker at the afternoon service. His discourse on "Loneliness" was very impressive and well received. Trinity United church choir of Newmarket, under the direction of Mr. Herman Fowler, sang an appropriate anthem.

Rev. Eldridge Curry, Victoria Square United church, was in charge of the evening service. Mr. Curry was pastor of the Union church 18 years ago and voiced appreciation in being invited to speak. His subject, "Anchored to the Infinite," was very timely and filled with encouragement for perilous days ahead. Mr. Charles Boyd sang very acceptably "Show Me My Task." The choir under the direction of Mrs. G. P. Wood, sang "The church by the side of the road."

The annual congregational supper was held on Monday night. At a business meeting, all departments gave encouraging reports. Mrs. Francis Starr and Stuart Starr showed movie films of missionary work in India and Pakistan which were greatly appreciated. Sunday school at the Union church is at 2.30 on Thanksgiving Sunday, Oct. 10, and church service at 2.30.

'In Reply To Yours Of Recent Date'

We received two letters this week from points widely distant and asking favors just as distant in intention. One was from Timmins and enclosed a photograph of a portly gentleman in a somewhat compromising pose. The picture was apparently snapped by a candid photographer, and the writer's intention was that the picture should be published as a reminder to its subject of the happy times he had on summer vacation. We returned the letter with regret for we are sure it would have caused much comment, not to mention a strong motivation for the subject of picture to shot-gun the editor.

Possibly, the writer of the letter was sincere in his purpose — just possibly. Our guess he is one of those practical jokers who think that newspapers exist for no other reason than to be really to those same jokes. It is really surprising how many requests are made to editors to lend themselves to someone's scheme to embarrass others. We suppose it is a tribute to the power of the press, for it certainly packs a terrific wallop on such occasions, but it is not the sort of tribute that editors appreciate.

Letter from England

The second letter was a good deal more to our liking. It was from Cambridge, England, and written on the letterhead of the "Cambridge and Newmarket Press Ball for 1949." Newspaper-what i am trying to get across to you boss with the least possible shock is that we have one in the basement of the era and express his name is euclid euclid the office rat was unfortunate in being a rat it was a handicap for him and led to his departure from this world by a rat trap last week now he is a ghost in our basement euclid had been making too many nightly trips up the drain pipe to mikes apartment and had been nibbling on too many of his apples mike parked a rat trap in his kitchen and euclid walked into it bare foot

so the ghost of the intellectual office rat is musing over possible haunting material in our basement down among the bundles of paper do not let this worry you for the time being boss because he is still on the waiting list for his first quota of ectoplasm apparently there is a shortage of the

Marsh Stores Celery For Winter

Holland Marsh growers hope to relieve any tendency towards a Canadian celery shortage during the coming winter. Celery arriving at the rate of from three to four thousand crates a day, is being stored in the Bradford co-operative storage plant for Canadian consumption during the coming months. Celery production on the marsh amounted to 215,000 crates this season. Of this, approximately one-half will go to storage. The Bradford plant, which is the second largest of its kind in Ontario, has a 628,000 cubic foot storage capacity, and expects to store around 45,000 crates of marsh celery as its share. By placing celery in cold storage the supply of Canadian celery is spread over a much longer period than would otherwise be the case.

W. L. Clark, Markham, received a box of heather from Scotland a few weeks ago. This was received from a friend whom Mr. Clark had told during his visit to that country last winter that he would like to see heather in bloom. Many of his friends of Scottish descent have had their hearts gladdened by the sight of the purple flower.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Sparks, Aurora, celebrated their tory, and a map of the town and its boundaries. They ask for photographs—perhaps Bert Budd will line up the council for the occasion, and maybe we can find a good Main St. view. It should strike a familiar note for the English since so many of their streets are of the same narrow dimensions. The difference is that they can claim age as the reason whereas in Newmarket, Ontario, we can only blame our own stupidity.

The next time we receive such a request, we think that we will insist upon a couple of free tickets, for it won't be long before an over-the-ocean hop is as much our daily itinerary as a trip to the post office, and citizens of the future will think it nothing to dress in Canada for a party in England.

This is not the first time greetings have been exchanged between the two towns. During the war, Newmarket supported their English counterpart's fund to purchase a fighter plane and in return, the English town sent a replica of the King's racing colors which then-Councillor Albert Higginson enclosed in a wooden case and it now hangs in the clerk's office. We shouldn't be surprised if there were other mementoes of interchanges between the two towns in private possession.

We will send them a copy of the newspaper and pertinent facts about the town as soon as we can get them together — it really is a pity that Newmarket lacks some sort of official direcghost and it took me a while to find him because he was asleep you see without his ectoplasm you can't see him only hear him i hung around for a while and finally he woke up

it's alright if you have something to haunt he said but i am not very interested in haunting people by all rights of the universe i should be haunting mike for getting me in that trap but i don't wish to hold it against him after all what human wouldn't set a trap for a rat that ate his apples euclid asked besides he continued if i am a good ghost for a hundred years the higher-ups will let me occupy the body of a rat again meanwhile i wear ectoplasm and once a year on halloween night i have a whole of a time are you and sam scratch going to be out halloween i asked yes he said by then i will have my ectoplasm and we will raise Cain in town i am going to meet sam when he gets off the night shift at three in the morning and we will paint the town red well boss we may have lost our office rat but we can say we have a darn good ghost in its place

maybe euclid the ghost would lend us some ectoplasm to repair some of this broken office furniture

The fair was officially opened Friday afternoon by C. D. Graham, deputy minister of agriculture. An outstanding exhibit was that of a variety of fruit arranged in a "horn of plenty" design. A two-year-old Holstein bull, Rembo Texal Sovereign, owned by George Jackson, George Henry and the Whittaker Bros., was chosen grand champion. Competition in the cattle classes was keen with one of the largest number of entries on record. It was the second largest regional Guernsey exhibit this year. Breeders from Halton, Peel, Simcoe, York and Ontario counties had entries in this class.

One would think that a fire chief's spare time would be used to make sure there would be no fire at his home but a fire chief is too busy a man putting out fires for other people to even bother looking after his own furnace let alone clean out the pipes. While George Johnston, Agincourt fire chief, was at Shelburne cooling off under the western breezes, back at home those furnace pipes just could not take any more smoke and almost choked the household to death. Young Ken describes it in the verse below:

While Pa was away up to Shelburne,
Our house nearly burned to the shell,
And Ma rung right up to central,
Says there's something I stutter to tell.
Please call the Dept. of Fire,
For up in my throat I feel choked.
Our furnace seems to backfire,
And I'm on my back nearly croaked.

The fire department arrived on the scene and gave the pipes and chimney a benevolent brush out.

A Bit Of Fun

"So you and Fred are getting married," exclaimed a friend to the bride-to-be. "Why, all along I thought it was just a flirtation." "Yes," smiled the girl, "so did Fred."

Editorials

The state is the servant, not the master, of the people; the state is their guarantee against infringement on their rights, their agent in international and national issues; it is not the function of the state to assume the direction of those activities which rest on individual choice.

The Times Are Changing

A resolution at the Liberal convention said the party favored the maintenance of a high standard of employment. "That's like saying the party is against sin," came the derisive reply. "What we want to know is how the party intends to ensure a high standard of employment."

The Conservatives ran into the same sort of reaction on a resolution favoring free enterprise. It was the only thing the two conventions had in common. As such, it is indicative of a growing state of mind which rejects the "platitudinous generality" of the professional politician for a realistic consideration of the issues.

There are a few in party councils who have the wit to realize what is happening. It is unfortunate that the majority continues in their belief that all they have to do is to roll out the same old routine their granddaddies used and the boys will be happy.

The public doesn't go for it any more, and the longer the back-room boys persist in thinking it, the more the party suffers desertion and the socialists win recruits. Like it or not, the socialists have an answer for everything. It is the wrong answer but it is at least an answer. So far, neither the Liberals nor the Conservatives have proven themselves very adept at giving answers.

Why Not Municipal Building?

The Newmarket town council has a new firehall under consideration. The firemen have asked for it because their new fire engine is homeless. It is too long to fit the present building. The fire and property committees have been joined in their deliberations by the police committee because it was suggested that as the police needed new quarters (particularly after the jail-break last weekend), they might be combined. Reeve Arthur D. Evans thought the library board might be consulted too because their present quarters are not the most satisfactory.

Why not go the whole way and make of this proposal for a new firehall the starting point for a central municipal building with courtroom, council and committee chambers, public health service, and town office? Heaven knows it is needed.

A quarter of a century ago, the town council started out to replace the firehall. It never came about. Since then, the building has been regularly condemned as a disgrace. Early in 1947, a council committee urged that the building be replaced. Surely the project has been pending long enough to now warrant some action?

Power Cut Despite Efforts

Switches were pulled in Newmarket this week as the last resort to hold power consumption to the quota set by the provincial hydro commission. Chairman of the Newmarket commission, Mr. Fred S. Thompson, Commissioner William Young, ably assisted by Mr. Angus Morrison, have done all they could to reduce Newmarket's consumption to the quota. In this they have had splendid co-operation from industry and the vast majority of householders. No effort was left untried if there was a possibility it might reduce power consumption.

Newmarket has been most fortunate in its hydro commission. No one likes the power cut-off, but no one can criticize Newmarket's commission for not having done all within its power to prevent it. Compared with other municipalities, where the hydro commission has not shown the same energy and foresightedness in reducing consumption, Newmarket is indeed favored, even though despite all efforts, the switches had to be pulled.

Now that the precedent for pulling switches has been established, however, there is no reason for the relaxation of power conservation. Power that is saved in daily use contributes to shortening the period that the power must be cut off. So far, we have had only a taste of what lies ahead. No lasting relief can be expected before March when the ice breaks, and in the meantime, the need for power will increase as the days grow shorter and the weather colder.

A report from Aurora in last week's paper tells how the citizens have chipped in their time and energy to make their arena a better place. They are doing it to help the recreation commission do a job. Newmarket might take note of it.

'Samplers' Prized Local Possessions

By ETHEL WILLSON TREWHIELLA, PART V

Contemporary with the above samplers Mr. Silas Armistage has in his possession one that he thinks was worked by his mother, Caroline Webb, before she attended the Friends' Boarding School, the forerunner of Pickering College, in Prince Edward county. It differs from anything so far examined, having been embroidered on a highly glazed paper that is remarkably preserved through the years. It is of a house in early Canadian architecture, with tree and rows of cross-stitching. Wool was the thread used and the colors, red and blue, still retain their pristine brilliance.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. D. Kinton of Toronto have a sampler which they prize very highly, and which is also another reminder of the early settlers in the County of York. It is one of the bordered specimens with a conventional floral arrangement and various sized letters, and is developed in reds, green and orange, which the passage of time has muted to a soft tapestry effect. The little worker's name in this instance is at the top, "Laura Jane Winn, aged nine years, 1843, Township of King." She was the daughter of Joshua Winn and his wife, Mary Wakefield, and later she became the grandmother of Mrs. Kinton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. King of Second St. are the owners of a

May 1699." The linen used as a foundation is of that cobwebby texture rarely met with, and in this instance Time has caressed it until it is now very fragile, because of which Mrs. King has mounted it on a firm material for protection. The embroidery itself is so finely executed that a glass is needed to discern the individual stitches. This early sampler was the work of an ancestor of Mr. King. She was also a great-granddaughter of the famous John Hampden, and the sampler was brought to this country from the West Indies, to where, because of the troubled times in England many families had emigrated.

From the Green Isle have been brought three samplers. Miss Elizabeth Richardson of Pickering is the owner of one worked by her grandmother. It is entitled, "Fortitude." "Fortitude is the hallowed ground which religion has", in every age, chosen for her own. There, her inspiration is felt and her secret mysteries elevate the soul. There, it is the fear of contribution; there, rises toward heaven the slip of the heart; there, melts the soul in all the tenderness of devotion, and pours itself forth before Him who made, and

Heating Lack Closes High School

The high school has been forced to close this week because of the delay of the contractors in installing the new heating system, according to the files of 25 years ago. It was expected to be ready when the school opened in September, but one delay after another has hindered the work. All the connections were completed last Tuesday morning except the pipe between the boiler and smoke stack. The pipe is here now and school will likely proceed as usual Monday morning.

Under Pen Sentence Testifies For Pal

Newmarket — For receiving stolen goods, Charles E. Hurst, 22, Keswick, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake Friday. Hurst had a previous record of several convictions and time in the reformatory.

Hurst said his home was in Keswick but he was arrested in Toronto where he had a room. Four charges were laid against him, for breaking and entering a cabin at the Royal Simcoe hotel, Keswick, and taking a suitcase, radio and flashlight belonging to John Stevens, for having possession of these goods, for stealing a hat, gold pencil, and windbreaker and for having possession of the goods.

Detectives Simmons and Mullen of the Toronto police said they found the articles in the accused's room in Toronto. Hurst said that he left Keswick around 7 o'clock, August 7, the night of the theft which took place later around 10.30 p.m., but Mrs. Fern Kenny, Keswick, testified that she saw him around 11.30 at the Riverdale the same night.

William Martin, who gave his address as 5572 Yonge St., Toronto, was called to the witness box by the accused. He had been convicted of church breaking and theft in the late summer and was under sentence of three years in Kingston. Later Friday night, while court was still in session, he escaped from a cell in the police station downstairs. Martin said that he himself had taken the stolen articles to the accused's room in Toronto, borrowed some clean clothes from him and got a $17 loan. Crown counsel asked him where he got the articles. Martin then said he would refuse to answer if the testimony could be used as evidence against him. Magistrate Hollinrake told him it would not and Martin said he received them from a Jimmy Simpson near the cabin at the Royal Simcoe, put them in his car and took them to Toronto.

The crown asked Martin for a description of the house where he took the goods to Hurst. Later, Detective Simmons gave a description of the house layout that differed from Martin's description.

Magistrate Hollinrake said the crown had insufficient evidence on the theft charge. Hurst pleaded guilty to possessing the second lot of goods. The second theft charge was dropped.

Richardson is on "Virtue." "Virtue is that perfect good which belongs to mortality. It is an invincible greatness of mind, not to be elevated or dejected by good or ill fortune. It is sociable and gentle, free, fearless and steady; content within itself and full of inexhaustible delights, Jane Taylor."

Those samplers were done in the Friends' School for Girls in the village of Mount Mellick in Ireland in 1805, and have been kept as treasured heirlooms by the descendants.

Miss Louise Rorke, editor of the Canadian Friend, and also of Pickering, is the happy possessor of another sampler from the Mount Mellick School. This is on "Happiness."

"No longer I follow a sound, No longer a dream I pursue; O happiness! not to be found, Unattainable treasure, adieu! I have sought thee in splendor and dress,

In the regions of pleasure and taste, Have sought thee, and seemed to possess, But love proved thee a vision at last.

An humble ambition and hope, The voice of true wisdom inspires,

"Tis sufficient if peace be the And the summit of all our desires.

Peace may be the lot of the mind

That seeks it in meekness and love; But rapture and bliss are confined To the glorified spirits above.

—Elizabeth Valentine, aged nine years, 1827." Miss Rorke asks, "Can you imagine anybody asking such a little girl to embroider such a grave and solemn thing? I wonder did she know what it meant. Let's hope not!"

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS
by Don Graham

Do you know why the setting sun is red? What language is spoken in Brazil? How political candidates are chosen?

No, this is not a quiz! It is a way of suggesting that there are countless subjects which most of us never explore.

Yet there are very satisfying rewards waiting those who acquire general knowledge on any subject. The mere act of learning facts has a beneficial effect on one's personality, apart altogether from the usefulness of the information itself.

Where to start? Perhaps the most useful subjects are those related to your work.
Next, you might study economics, psychology, history, or whatever else appeals to you and build an interest in it.

Such a program helps make you a more effective worker, a better developed personality and a more interesting conversationalist!

It may surprise you to learn that people in 64 different countries buy life insurance policies from Canadian companies — a fact which proves that Canadians are not the only people who have confidence in these companies and their efficient operation.

In Memoriam

Barker—In ever cherished memory of our dear sister, Mrs. Emma Hattie Barker, who departed from us in the beautiful autumn season of October 4, 1946.
Still, still with thee
When purple morning breaketh;
When the bird waketh
And the shadows flee,
Fairer than the morning,
Loveller than the daybreak,
Dawns that sweet consciousness
"She is with Thee."
Ever remembered by brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Smith, Sudbury.

Brown — In loving memory of our darling little daughter, Betty Bernice Brown, who passed away suddenly, October 12, 1946, age 7 years.
No one knows how much we miss
you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered. Since we lost
you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear Betty,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed, ever treasured by Mom, Dad and Iona.

Firth — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Dan Firth, who passed away October 5, 1939.
The dearest wife and mother the world could hold,
The cheeriest smile, a heart of gold;
And those who knew her all will know
How much we lost nine years ago.
Always a smile instead of a frown, Always a hand when one was down;
Always so true, thoughtful and kind,
What a beautiful memory she left behind.
Sadly missed by her husband and family.

Jones — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who passed away October 5, 1936.
Years will not darken nor shadows dim
The loving memory we have of him;
Though lost to sight, to memory
dear,
We miss him more each passing year.
At the heavenly gates you are waiting
With the same sweet loving smile;
We know we're only parted
Just for a little while.
Lovingly remembered by his wife Clara and family, Bill, Bob, Percy, Ivy, Lillian and May.

Pollack — In loving memory of our dear brother, Ivan George Pollock who was killed in action October 9, 1914 in Belgium.
Sweet memories will linger forever.
Time cannot change them, it's true;
Years that may come cannot sever
Our loving remembrance of you.
Lovingly remembered by brother,
Aubrey, Helen and family.

Homemakers' Exchange

Many homemakers are again confronted with the daily problem of packing the school lunch. There are several unalterable rules for planning school lunches. The meal should fit in with the other two meals of the day to fill the day's needs completely.

Foods should be wrapped separately to keep them fresh and prevent mixing of flavors. The lunch box menu should have three groups of food. The first includes meat, eggs, cheese, fish or dried beans. These are usually made into sandwiches or salads. There should also be fruit or vegetables. If packed in a box, fruit may be preferred unpeeled and whole, but occasionally stewed fruit may be put in a small jar with a screw top. Raw vegetables in salads or crisp vegetable sticks are good. A thermos bottle of milk or a cream soup will round out the meal. In addition, a cookie or piece of cake will be popular.

Something different for a sandwich filling is always welcome. Here are two recipes

I will continue telling my shut-in friends about a trip to Point Clark on Lake Huron, midway between Kincardine and Goderich. Last week I left you at Kincardine where it says, "You are a stranger only once, will you not come back again?" on a signboard, as you leave. I think Kincardine is one of the nicest towns I was ever in. Sure it's Scotch and that makes it all the more lovable! Somebody asked me if I were Scotch—I said my name, but hurriedly displayed a Scotch plaid scarf, and like a flash the answer came "Shake—you'll do!"

I think they have the kindest, the most courteous folk you'll find anywhere, right there in Kincardine. The shops are grand—and Scotch plaid is everywhere! They had just celebrated their centennial, and maybe the stores were extra special on that account. But before we leave Kincardine with its fine, wide main street, with its flower beds on the corners, put there by the Kinsmen club; with its drinking fountains; with its immaculate hospital on the extreme north-end of the Main St., overlooking the lake; the war memorial with its many wreaths; I want to tell about a particularly unique memorial.

It stands between the public library and the war memorial, and the post office. The post office, by the way, stands in a corner and up the side street. Across the way is a delightful little park with benches and a

The Common Round...

WITH BOW AND HOE

When you first take a glance at these two work instruments you would not think that they had much in common, but a little thought will show they have. You use both with your good right arm. You have to practice with both to attain even a minimum of efficiency. Both well used produce desirable results.

Last week, I had reason to try out both of them with varying degrees of success.

On Tuesday evening, the Newmarket Community Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Jackson, played for the Home and School meeting in the Anglican parish hall, so I had occasion to wield my bow. There was a very large turn-out of Home and School members that evening and they listened to the fine program laid out for them for the coming year. It embraces a wide variety of activities as outlined by the various convener of committees. Mrs. Wheeland, the president, said that there was a type of work ready for every member on these committees, suited to their tastes and abilities.

band-stand, and a three-tiered fountain. I mention this for I want to tell of a little incident that happened to me. We were to meet the car at the park, so my friend went on round the corner to wait while I copied down the words on this monument that so intrigued me. It is called the Second Monument and is in memory of a beloved doctor who died in 1910 after 50 years of service to Kincardine. I was trying to copy down the inscription on the north side when an old gentleman came along and asked me could I read it, and when I copy it down for you perhaps you'll ask the same! Here is what it says:

"He knew the cause of over-illness was it hoot or cold or moyste or drye, and where they engendered and of what humour. He was a verry Parfit Practitioner."—Chaucer.

The old gentleman kindly told me I'd like the reverse side better, and here's what it says. But first I must explain that the monument is of gray granite, beautifully done, with a sun-dial at the top with the words, "I Mark Sunny Hours." Below that is a carved drape with tassels, and then: "To Solomon Secord, 1834-1910, our family physician for 50 years. This memorial was erected by his loving friends. Served as surgeon with Southern Army during American Civil War. All that lived he loved, and without regard for fee or reward, he did his work for love of his work, and for love of his fellows."

It was stressed that peace should be the objective toward which all their work tended, and peace universal could only spring from peace individual. Peace and co-operation seemed to me to highlight all the evening, whether a member of the Newmarket Home and School Association spoke or while, with great interest and pleasure, we listened to Mrs. Campbell who is sent out by the North York County council to speak to the members. She said that there would be less need of psychiatrists if there were a sense of peace and security in the home. A united family life based on the Golden Rule would bring those desired results. Then too, one of the Association's main objects was to promote co-operation between home and school.

And by the way, I've heard a great deal of discussion on this subject lately. One woman said to me, "If my child is punished at school and complains to me and if, as is usually the case, I feel the teacher had every right to punish, then I add a little on my own, which discourages tale-bearing and adds to the teacher's authority." And

War. All that lived he loved, and without regard for fee or reward, he did his work for love of his work, and for love of his fellows."

When I had copied the words I went on into the post office for stamps, for some cards of the lighthouse at Point Clark I wanted to mail, and I was speaking of this Second monument to the post-master, and saying how splendid I thought it was. When I went across to the park and we sat waiting for the car to pick us up when to my surprise the post-master came across to tell me if I'd like a good photo postcard of the monument I could get one at Lee's Photo shop farther up town. If that wasn't extreme kindness to a stranger.

So while Edith waited I went to Lee's where we'd been several times to get snap-shots printed, and to my delight he found several cards of the monument, and when I told him that the post-master had kindly gone out of his way to tell me about them, he, too, was pleased, and what a splendid photo it is—you can read the words so easily. What do you suppose I did then? Went to the post office, addressed one to myself and sent it home for fear I'd be tempted to send it to someone else. You see I wanted to tell you all about it.

FARM BULLETIN

HOW MUCH DOES A HEN EAT?

An agricultural college, after a careful study of laying hens, finds that such a hen requires about one pound of dry feed for each seven eggs laid. These studies indicate that a hen laying 140 two-ounce eggs a year needs for egg laying alone 20 lbs of dry feed beyond her requirements for all other purposes. A hen laying 105 eggs needs only 15 pounds of extra feed, while one laying 280 eggs annually requires 40 pounds.

Total feed required for one hen for a year was figured this way: Multiply the live weight of the bird, in pounds, by eight and add 25. Then divide the total number of eggs the hen lays by seven and add this figure to the total obtained by the first two steps. For example:

Weight of hen—5 lbs.
5 x 8 equals 40—40 plus 25 equals 65
Hen lays 105 eggs per year.
105 divided by 7 equals 15.
Total feed required per year—
65 plus 15 equals 80 lbs.

DOUBLE-RING RITE AT KESWICK

On Sept. 18, Rev. M. R. Brown officiated at the double-ring ceremony at the home of the bride, Keswick, when Annetta Ruth Redditt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred V. Redditt, became the bride of William Albert McGenerty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McGenerty.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an afternoon dress of princess blue crepe with a halo of blue flowers and carried white gladioli petals with pink roses. Mrs. Doris Miller, sister of the groom, was the bride's only attendant, in autumn brown crepe with a halo of yellow flowers, and she had a corsage of yellow roses. Best man was Grant Redditt.
